SECTION A: Comprehension and vocabulary (30 marks)

Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow

As we are aware, the HIV/AIDS pandemic is on the rampage; ravaging the youth and the old alike. It is time for people to decide for themselves what is good and what is not. And the earlier they do this the better.

The youth, for instance, can rise up with the message of hope and assure everybody that it is possible for the remnant to remain by abstaining from premarital sex. And how will they abstain if everywhere they look images of sex stare at them, beckoning alluringly?

The thing to remember is that it is their responsibility to censor the stuff that gets into their minds because this will definitely affect the kind of decisions and lifestyles they adopt. Before reading a pornographic book or magazine, they should pause and ask themselves, “Do I hope to become better after reading this?” The same consideration should be made before watching certain movies and listening to offensive music. Guarding one’s mind against trash requires laying down very clear principles. Discipline is imperative.

For young people, it is important to choose friends wisely. They should determine what they will be doing together. If a friend is not building them up, or is causing them undue pressure, they then shun him or her. This pressure often takes the form of making those who choose to abstain from premarital or illicit sex feel inadequate. Avoiding idleness is equally important. The wise say that an idle mind is the devil’s workshop. The solution is to get busy with constructive activities be they academic, economic, physical or spiritual. Trying out new hobbies such as gardening, playing football, swimming, basket weaving, baking and volunteer work is a step in the right direction.

Parents must also take the full responsibility of bringing up their children. They are first counselors of their children especially in the formative stages. Unless they do something in good time, they will cry alone when the disaster of teenage pregnancies, abortion and HIV/AIDS happens right under their own roofs. The onus is upon them to freely discuss issues of sexuality with their children.

Teachers too have a very crucial role to play in the lives of their students. The youth spend a bigger percentage of their moments with their teachers. The teachers not only equip them with academic knowledge but also with the right attitudes and behavior. And it is a good thing that sex education has been introduced in the school curriculum.

Moreover, places of worship must pitch in with their contribution. They are an excellent position of imparting the correct moral values to their adherents. Besides, they can provide social and religious activities that will build the youth up spiritually and mentally.

Finally, it is incumbent upon the government to put in place legislation governing what the citizens, especially the youth, are exposed to in the form of print or electronic media.
In conclusion, the future generation is keenly watching us to see if we will wreck or salvage the boat of their survival. Every member of society has a part to play in enhancing morality. It is only by doing this that we can hope to wreck the onslaught of HIV/AIDS.

SECTION C: SUMMARY (10 MARKS)

Read the following passage and then, in not more than 80 words summarize the problems that make it difficult for developing countries to achieve healthy living conditions. (10 marks)

People living in developed countries take good health and sanitation for granted. It is easy enough to forget how much it costs to develop and maintain that security. The requirements of a healthy life sounds simple but they can be very difficult to achieve. A balanced diet is essential. This ensures healthy growth in children and provides resistance to infection. Pure water supplies are needed to avoid the dangers of water borne diseases. Good quality housing protects people from the harmful effects of climate and provides hygienic conditions. A healthy service should be available for the treatment of illnesses and to educate people in hygiene and preventive medicine, while refuse disposal and sewage systems are necessary to remove safely and efficiently. Nowadays virtually every one in developed countries enjoys living standards that meet these conditions. Yet the developed world has only been able to achieve this through massive investment of public money. The developing countries on the other hand are only just beginning to make progress towards a healthy society. They face many extra problems that make the task even harder. Economic difficulties mean that little money is available for improved medical services. Rapid population growth makes it difficult to provide good quality housing and hygienic living conditions. Production of food is less certain because of the unrealistic climatic conditions. The result of this is inability to provide a balanced diet. The high temperatures encourage disease. Finally, long distance and poor communication in many regions lead to severer difficulties in supplying medical help or spreading health education.
